Applicant's Amendment filed October 8, 2009 is acknowledged. Claim 3 is canceled. Claims 1, 2 and 4-11 remain under consideration.

The subject matter under consideration remains those methods of treating irritable bowel syndrome comprising administering balsalazide, or a salt thereof, as well as methods drawn to administering a 4-aminosalicylic acid compound or a 5-aminosalicylic acid compound, either of which is modified to include a 4-aminobenzoyl- β -alanine side chain. Those methods drawn to the treatment of conditions other than irritable bowel syndrome remain withdrawn from consideration by the Examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as drawn to non-elected inventions.

Rejections set forth in prior Office Actions that are not herein reiterated are withdrawn. The following rejection is the only rejection presently applied to the instant claims.

Claims 1-11 were rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lin et al., U.S. Patent 6,562,629, in the last Office Action. It was asserted Lin teaches the administration of balsalazide in the treatment of irritable bowel syndrome. See column 18, lines 4-21, where 4- or 5-aminosalicylic acid compounds, and conjugated derivatives thereof, are taught to be effective antimicrobial agents in methods of treating IBS. See the Abstract. Lin teaches the co-administration of antibiotics in the treatment of IBS, as required by instant claim 10. See Example 3, columns 24-25. Useful agents in IBS therapy include ipsalazide, sulfasalazine, olsalazine and mesalazine.

Although Applicant agrees Lin suggests 5-amino salicylic acid compounds, including balsalazide, may be used to treat small intestinal bacterial overgrowth (SIBO), which may be a contributing factor to IBS, Applicant argues nowhere in column 18 is the direct use of balsalazide to treat IBS disclosed. Applicant urges a condition of the large intestine, e.g., IBS, is distinct from a condition of the small intestine and refers to the testimonial Examples on pages 10-12 of the specification to support an assertion of unexpected results.

Applicant's argument is not found persuasive. The rejection of record of claims 1, 2 and 4-11 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), as being unpatentable over Lin et al., U.S. Patent 6,562,629, is maintained. Besides stating in the Abstract that a treatment of IBS is contemplated, in Example 3, column 24-25, Lin sets forth a methodology. According to Lin, the incidence of SIBO among untreated subjects suspected of having IBS is 84%, thus showing a strong association between suspected IBS and the presence of SIBO. See column 17, lines 40-50, and column 24, lines 36-40. Partial eradication of bacterial overgrowth provides a method of treatment of irritable bowel syndrome. To achieve partial eradication, an antimicrobial agent is administered. Among the antimicrobial chemotherapeutic options is balsalazide. Following administration, balsalazide is delivered intact to the colon where it is cleaved by bacterial azoreduction to release equimolar quantities of mesalamine, the therapeutically active portion of the molecule, and 4-aminobenzoyl- β -alanine, an only minimally absorbed and largely inert portion of the molecule. Therefore, the administration of balsalazide encompasses the limitation of claim 11, i.e., that the 4- or 5-aminosalicylic acid compound is modified to include a 4-aminobenzoyl- β -alanine side chain. The physical and chemical properties of balsalazide would have motivated one skilled in the gastroenterology art to select this particular antimicrobial agent.

One skilled in the gastroenterology art would have been motivated to administer balsalazide with a reasonable expectation of treating IBS in a human. According to Lin, a clear association exists between SIBO and IBS. See Figures 1 and 2.

No claim is allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this Final Action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this Action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this Final Action and the Advisory Action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the Advisory Action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the Advisory Action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this Final Action.
